A Challenging Life

Starting the Fall 1992 semester, Pikeville College consolidated all of the campus' tutorial programs into one, new lab in the basement of the Armington Science building. All Pikeville College students are eligible to receive free and unlimited peer tutoring spanning all areas of study at the tutoring center. Those students interested in tutoring are welcomed by the center and may receive a paying tutoring job, depending upon class background and academic achievement. The tutoring lab also boasts a number of computer tutorials to further aid students.

LIFE on the Go

"Life On The Hill" for commuter students can be very different from that of a resident student. The average commuter drives at least 30 minutes to school and takes two trips on the shuttle bus each day. Anyone riding the shuttle knows Clint King. Of Clint, Bobby Coleman says, "Clint takes you right to your car if he knows you. He is always friendly and talkative. Plus, he drives slowly--you can catch the bus by running when you have to."

Parking at Pikeville College is an ongoing problem for everyone. Ask any commuter, and you will get a horror story about arriving late for class due to the lack of an empty parking space. "The later you come, the worse the parking situation gets," says Allen Williamson.

For many commuters, the Bear's Den is a good place to study between classes, as well as a place to grab a snack. Rebecca Bradford explained that she uses the Bear's Den as a meeting place with friends. Responding to the question, "What do you do while waiting for classes," Tex Lawson replied, "We sit around and talk about people." Rita Swiney added truthfully that there was not much studying going on, "just gossiping."

Between classes, this commuter grabs a snack.

Rita Swiney, Tex Lawson, and Robert Mayton study in the New York room.

Many commuters take advantage of the shuttle service on campus.

Clint King makes sure that all of the passengers are seated before he "zooms" off.

Patiently waiting, this group plans to ride down the hill.

Only if you have great concentration can you study in the Bear's Den.

Rebecca Bradford enjoys her lunch in the Bear's Den.

LIFE in the dorm

Life on the hill for resident students means living in one of three dorms:

Page, Condit, or Wickham Hall.

Condit are the women's residence halls; Wickham is for the men.

Page Hall residents know to come early and leave late if they wish to find a parking spot.

At Condit Hall, students come early if they want in--the doors are locked at midnight. Twenty-four hours a day there is something going on in Wickham Hall.

Resident students are a dying breed. Of 850 students, only 224 live on campus.

"We're paying Beth's boyfriend to clean our bathroom next time."
--Stephanie May

A clearer reflection is Stephanie May's goal.

Condit resident Norma Fuller tackles the dreaded job of ironing.

Sleeping Beauty? Scotty Akers gets ready to catch a few hours of sleep.

A little Soft Scrub goes a long way. Carla Tussey scrubs the toilet in her suite.

The best kind of roommate is one that swims and doesn't talk. R.A. Mindy Muncy has a typical dorm room.

Two Jodys are not necessarily better than one. Jody Johnson checks himself out in the mirror.

Mark Reed shows the ravages of a long hard night.

Fire Forces Residents of Wickham Hall into Hotel

Pikeville College had four dorms for approximately one month after the fire at Wickham Hall on the night of January 20, 1993. All of Wickham Hall's residents were relocated to the Daniel Boone Motor Inn which came to be temporarily renamed "Boone Hall." Work was completed post haste on the men's dormitory while one floor at a time moved back into the dorm.

A well known site to any "Boone Hall" resident, the Daniel Boone's front desk.

Scotty Akers and J.J. Wright are a lot happier than they look on their last day at the hotel.

Dwayne Stevens moves back into Wickham Hall.

William Hall...Walk softly and carry a large sledgehammer.

A worker putting the finishing touches on a room in Wickham Hall.

Work started on the men's dormitory the very next day after the fire.

J.J. Wright eagerly packs his truck to move back into the dorm.

Eddie, Chris (Chicken), and Stephanie celebrate after the fire is extinguished.

Class Registration

Long waits in line, closed class sections, check sheets, and repeated trips to the advisor's office are all a part of the registration process. Can I get that one class I need that won't be offered again for two more years? Will the instructor let me into an overcrowded section?

Registration evokes memories of a journey, one complete with all the anticipation of success and the possibility of failure. It begins in the advisor's office, pouring over a catalog and a class schedule, filling out forms in quintuplicate, and getting that all-important signature that labels it "approved." Then it is off to the Registrar's office, with a possible detour back to the advisor to change a class or two, then back again, then a sharp right and left to the business office to pay the tuition fees. And everywhere another line to wait in, and the same question repeated over and over: "Will I EVER get to graduate?"

Awaiting a mad rush of advisees? Professor Mark Sohn looks ready for any challenge.

Christmas on the Hill

An annual event at Pikeville College is the Christmas Party for administrators, faculty, staff, and students. Covered dishes are prepared and throughout the day the lobby of the Administration Building is full of people enjoying good food and company. For faculty and staff it is a nice break during the work day. For students it is a welcome diversion from oncoming final's week. This year, those attending the Christmas Party received a special treat. The music was provided by Jim Andy Caudill and one of Pikeville's own students, David Morris.

The residents of Page Hall, suite 303, decorate their door in a group effort to win the contest.

One of the many decorated doors entered in the door decorating contest.

Stephanie May and Bart Williams enjoy the snacks at the Christmas party.

President Owens, staff, and students alike enjoy the music, atmosphere, and good food in the Administration Building lobby.

Wonder what Peggy Davis asked Santa (John Biery) for this year?

Seating is never a problem for a college with so many steps!

Michelle, Tammy, and Belinda enjoy the refreshments provided at the party.

Charlie and Corcinda make sure that they have a collection of the party favors.

Amy, Scotty, and Linda watch impatiently as the election returns are displayed.

Election Party

Definitely not being excluded from the burst of young voter enthusiasm during the 1992 Presidential Campaign, Pikeville College students were abuzz with interest. A mock election was sponsored by the Pikeville College Republicans and Democrats in which students could select their favorite candidate. Contrary to the 'real thing', Pikeville College students re-elected President Bush. On the night of the elections, everyone was invited to attend a party in the Bear's Den to watch the election results on TV.

Wonder who Jeremy voted for?

Love Tribute

You could hear his distinctive voice from all over the gymnasium, cheering for the Bears and scolding the referees. But lately that voice had begun to grow faint, and finally it was stopped altogether. But the faithfulness and support Ed Love gave to Pikeville College in life carries on after his death. The 1992-3 Midnight Madness saw the dedication of a new bus obtained by the College with Ed Love's help, which now bears his name and carries his legacy wherever a Bear's team goes. And the chair where he sat and roared his support now bears a plaque to honor him--and if you listen closely, you might still hear his voice in those rafters, still cheering for his team.

Chris Walker and Brian Johnson dig in to the campfire food.

Carla Tussey and niece, Ashley, are getting ready for Midnight Madness while the bonfire blazes in the background.

Founder 's Day

In 1883, two ministers, Dr. James Condit and Dr. James Hendrik took separate journeys on horseback to "prospect for Presbyterianism." Upon their return, both lamented the lack of churches and schools in the mountains and pressed for a new vision. "My vision," said Rev. Hendrik, "is that we establish a school for the mountain boys and girls who have been deprived of an education in the mountain strongholds." Six years later, Pikeville Collegiate Institute was founded with 125 students and three teachers. Over a century later, nearly 1000 students and 150 faculty and staff look back at the beginning from atop an expanding campus, including a new bridge and arcade leading to the still-new library. The vision continues.

Runners beginning their 10K jaunt.

Dancers entertain the crowd at the Pikeville College gym.

Rafael shows off his talent by painting a star.

Damon Sexton thinks, "Did he say red or blue?"

Ray Ladbury tells fortunes inside a tent for the Kit Kat Club.

Scott Ingram gets ready to dive into the pie eating contest.

Students size up the '99' before they compete.

Hopefully, Sadie Altman and Jeremy Burnette are going to share those baby bottles...

Founder's Day Dedication

Founder's Day saw the dedication of the latest piece of construction at Pikeville College: the new bridge spans the area behind the Administration Building to Wickham Hall, then through out to the Library Commons. The new structure was dedicated at a ceremony hosted by President William Owens, and will mean easier access for more students to the Library building.

Pikeville College staff witness the bridge dedication.

The bridge while still being constructed.

Completed but not yet finished, the bridge receiving a few final touches.

More construction still left for the new bridge.

Pikeville College Chaplain, Robert Davis, speaks at the dedication ceremony.

The final touch...the bridge receives a bath.

Spotlight

On Seniors

Spotlight on Seniors, a program offered to all students, other than education majors, prepares students to enter the job market. With Linda Myer's excellent help, each of the participants prepare a resume, and through workshops, the students learn all about dressing and preparing for the all important interview. At the annual job fair held at Louisville, Kentucky, the participants gain valuable experience in interviewing and making employer contacts.

Roger Ford lectures on the senior's performances after they have been through a trial interview.

These participants wait patiently for their workshop to begin.

John David Spears is busy taking notes on his interview performance.

Jeff Justice replies to the question, "How has your year been?" with, "There have been a lot of changes and a lot of improvements over the years and this has been the best so far."

Jason Beverly says, "Thank God this will be the last time that I have to move all of my things out of the dorm."

Asked what she liked most about this semester, Patrece Vanover responded, "Professors who did not assign research papers!"

Responding to a question about her future plans, Carla Tussey replies, "This will be my last semester (Spring '93) here. I have been accepted to Pharmacy School at UK. I am excited but I will miss everybody."

When asked how his year had gone, J.J. Wright said, "I think my junior year has been pretty good with the exception of my broken leg. You should try walking on crutches all over the campus for an entire year!"

"No sir, I didn't like this Spring semester at all," was Chris 'Chicken' Kidd's reply to the question "Are you enjoying this year?"

When asked how her year was going, Dora Williams answered, "It has been a really rough semester!"

Mountain Laurel

During the annual Founders' Day activities many waited nervously during the new bridge dedication to find out the name of the 1993 representative to the Mountain Laurel competition. This year's winner was Mary Ann Hatfield, and the runner-up was Dora Suzanne Williams. The competition will be held in Pineville, Kentucky in the Spring of 1993.

Contests

Two literary competitions were held at Pikeville College this year. The first, which is an annual tradition, is called the Sylvia Trent Auxier Poetry Contest. Candace Knudson placed first, while Aggie Sipple placed second. The second competition, a short story competition, began this year. It was sponsored by the also newly formed Arts and Literature Club. Professor Elgin Ward took first place, Linda Myers took second and Aggie Sipple took third.

Alumni Association

The Pikeville College Alumni Association has become a vital part of the college's life in recent years. Under the leadership of President Howard Roberts and his 24-member Board of Directors, the Alumni Association has worked hard to benefit the college and those future alumni who make up its current student body. Fundraising represents a major portion of the Alumni Association's work: Each year the Association raises thousands of dollars in scholarship money to assist students, and provides its own Alumni Scholarship award to a student who is the offspring of a Pikeville College alum. In addition, many alumni volunteer in the various college offices, or some come in on weekends to help paint and spruce up the place. The Association also help with the concession stand at Bears and Lady Bears games. This year the Association designed a Pikeville College wristwatch and a special Christmas ornament. Thanks in part to the Alumni Association, the Pikeville College family is healthy and growing larger with each new entering class.

This year the Pikeville College Academic Team had a very busy year. The team went on three overnight trips: Hopkinsville Community College, University of Kentucky, and Murray State University. Pikeville College hosted a tournament in November which was a great success. But, not all of the teams' competitions were serious, in April 1993, the Student-Faculty Academic Challenge was held. When all the dust cleared, the Division I team placed 1ST in the state under KCQRL year-end standings, and the Division II team placed 2ND in the state for Division II teams.

Bears Basketball

The 1992-1993 Bears Basketball season proved to be one of the most exciting in recent memory. The team finished the season ninth in the nation in scoring, with an average of more than 93 points per game. The Bears became known as the "Three Bears" because of their three-point shooting: the team put up a school record 954 three-point shots for the season. The high point of the season was a 95-93 win over traditional rival Cumberland College, which gave the Bears new respect all over the K.I.A.C. With Danny Polintz as the only senior, the Bears look forward to more experience next year, with all five late-season starters returning to action. In addition, Coach Rick Scruggs had a stellar recruiting year at season's end, with Pikeville College being named the number one recruiting team in the N.A.I.A. It won't be long before the Bears are standing tall among Kentucky's basketball best.

Lady Bears Basketball

It was a young Pikeville Lady Bears team that took to the court this year, trying to recover from the loss of All-Star graduates Crystal Slone and Renee Brewer. But the Lady Bears rose to the test, posting a winning season (14 wins, 13 losses), and defeating some of the best teams in the nation along the way. Led by All District and All KIAC stars Autumn Delong and Marsha Maynard and Senior Center Beth Banks, the Lady Bears cruised to tournament championships in Hastings, Nebraska (defeating 9th ranked St. Ambrose 75-71), and in Pikeville's own Rax Invitational. With the core of this young team ready to return, a district championship lies in the Lady Bears' future.

Bears Baseball

The Pikeville Bears Baseball team played a solid season, posting a 23-18 record and finishing 2nd in the standings, having been picked to finish no better than 6th. Coach of the Year Roy Cutright got stellar performances from All District First Team players Ron Runyon, Rob Taylor and Gary Justice, and Second Team players Sam Hamilton and Chris Plummer, with Runyon leading the way with a .396 batting average, 11 home runs and 44 runs batted in. Chris Plummer swiped 21 bases, while pitcher Gary Justice posted a team-leading 7 wins. Though the Bears lost in the District 32 playoffs, they look forward to the return of most of their star players, and to even better seasons ahead.

Lady Bears Softball

The Pikeville Lady Bears Softball season could be summed up in one word: "rain." Over half of the team's games were rained out, leaving the Lady Bears struggling for wins to move up in the standings. Though the team won nearly half their games, the season became a disappointing one for Coach Butcher and his charges. In addition to the wet weather, Coach Butcher had barely enough players to field a team--but those he had played up to the challenge. With Elizabeth Baird, Melissa Davis, and Amy Mathes leading the way, the Lady Bears remained respectable in all the games they were able to get in. Recruiting has already begun for the next season, and the Lady Bears say they will be ready--as long as the sun stays out!

Bears

Spring awoke to a new sound this year: the sound of balls bouncing off of rackets. Pikeville's new Tennis Team opened its first season, making it the third major offering in the Pikeville College sports program. The brainchild of faculty member Howard Francis and coached by Larry Judd, the team was comprised of seven men and two women who participated in both singles and doubles play. Though scheduling only five meets in this first season, the team scored two impressiv ewins over rival Alice Lloyd College, on the way to a 2-3 overall record.

Hillbilly Days

Pikeville's spring-fest! Every April Eastern Kentucky goes native, as the Shriners sponsor a week-long festival to support their children's hospitals and burn centers. # Students vs. Faculty

A new tradition for Pikeville College continued this year. For the past four years the faculty and the academic team have looked forward to the Student-Faculty Academic Challenge. This year the students won the brown jug, which they have won three out of the four years, by defeating the faculty two games to one.

Campus Construction

The campus face-lift continues, as new construction and renovation are begun or completed in several areas on the hill. In addition to the new bridge and arcade connecting Allara Library with the rest of the campus, Armington Science and Learning Center is being spruced up outside and in, as is the main floor of the Administration Building, which was redone with a hardwood floor, new chandelier, and a fresh coat of paint. The largest project is the addition to Record Memorial, which will get an elevator, new walkwayson every level, and major renovation on the inside. Destined to be completed by Fall 1993, Record Memorial will house the Nursing Division, studio and performing arts, and will have expanded storage and dressing facilities for groups using Faith Chapel. Future construction will include the old Dariana building, and changes to Wickham Hall, and the Marvin Student Center.

"Where are my eggs?" Starting at 7:30 every morning, sleepy students unlucky enough to have an early class stumble into the cafeteria for their first meal of the day. By the end of the day, more than 1000 meals will have been served in the main dining hall as well as in the Bear's Den. Meal time is also the best time to catch up with friends and finish up uncompleted school work. "Does anybody know anything about calculus?"

Student Hangouts

Where do students really live? Not in dorms, not in homes. On steps! Yes, steps - Administration Building steps, Armington steps, and of course the niety-nine. Steps are important to the Pikeville College lifestyle. They are where friendships are made, sweet-nothings whispered, and where homework is begun. It is simply impossible to go anywhere on campus and not encounter a step or two.

The benches in the Administration Building are a favorite place to hangout between classes and before lunch.

Before the weather gets too hot, the steps in front of the Administration Building are the best place to catch some rays.

Stephanie Gillum, Chris Kidd, Brad Hall, Stacy Abshire, and Leigh Ann Smith. Even the cafeteria becomes a daily hangout for students.

Students can find plenty of seating on the front steps.

One favorite student hangout is the basketball court in front of Page Hall.

Greg Vance and Alisha Combs on the third floor steps of the Armington Science Building.

Melanie Fields and John Kitchen are waiting for their next class to begin while sitting on the benches in the lobby of the Science Building.

Math & Science Seminars

Once a week for the past two semesters faculty, staff, and students assembled to be enlightened by many diverse and interesting talks called The Math & Science Seminars. These seminars were the brain-child of professor Mark Sund (pictured at right), who said of the talks, "I had wanted to provide a weekly gathering place for people from all divisions of the college since I came here three years ago." Not only were the seminars a gathering place, but they also helped to update people of the new and interesting developments occurring in the fields of science and mathematics.

Bob Davis is able to fit the whole universe into his discussion.

Ray Ladbury speaks to a packed crowd.

An Evening Of Theatre

as presented by the Almost Ready For Off,
Off Broadway
Repertory Theatre

Dwayne Stevens as "The Villian" in the third production.

How can we all get ready with only one mirror in the entire theater? Jeff Justice holding the hairspray,
Peggy Davis
hogging the mirror, Linda Myers being made up, and Johnny Ratliff doing the making up.

Always good for a disturbed rehearsal (in all senses of the word), Gerald Vanover trying out everyone else's props.

Ready to go on as Constance Lafoon, Melissa Trader checks her costume one last time.

William Hall - The Stage Manager, Kim Thompson - The Lighting Crew, and Leigh Ann Smith (hiding).

David Morris provided mood music for the evening.

Petra Baldrige in her costume for the production When Shakespear's Ladies Meet and Peggy Davis dressed as Cleopatra of the Nile.

Readying for the third production of the evening, Peggy Davis as the Sheriff.

Surely that isn't Linda Myers! It looks more like Babette Vavoom...

Easter Egg Hunt

A new tradition at Pikeville College is the annual Fellowship of Christian Athletes Easter Egg Hunt which is held for the children of community students. This year, some 25 children, parents, and club members hunted out Easter Eggs around the flag pole with prizes going to those with specially colored eggs.

FCA members distribute prizes.

Janice Ford is in good company at the social gathering.

PC Meets PCC

A milestone was reached this year when Pikeville College and Prestonsburg Community College approved a "Joint Resolution of Cooperation." Signed by President William Owens of Pikeville and Deborah Floyd of Prestonsburg, the resolution committed both schools to recognize "the value of diversity in higher education for mountain students, and...focus on ways and means to increase citizens of Kentucky." One tangible result of the resolution was a get-together between the faculties of the two schools, allowing Pikeville professors to get acquainted with their Prestonsburg counterparts. Future possibilities include the sharing of faculty and perhaps even a "2+2" program in the years ahead.

Doug Rice and Mark Sund

faculty.

Alex Nichols and Michael Fitzgerald mingling.

Chapel

Bob Davis provided the music for the Passover Seder.

Jerry Waddell played for the special Martin Luther King chapel.

Candace Knudson and Carol Grizzard
portrayed roles for the Passover Seder.

By the look of things, Bob Davis must be giving a stern sermon this chapel.

Students and faculty participated in the Passover Seder ritual.

Phonathon

Hall of Fame Presentation

At noon on Saturday, January 30, the new Hall of Fame inductees were introduced and honored with several gifts, including a framed print of the Administration Building. A photograph plaque with their statistics were also added to the gallery in the Hall of Fame room.

Whoops! Jim Andy Caudill's class must have fallen asleep. Don't worry, he'll wake them up.

At the end of the semester, every calss gets rushed - even art class.

From the looks of it, this class in the Administration Building can't wait until the end of the day.

Basil Clark's theatre class looks like it is ready to break a leg!

Summer

Summer

Classes are out and everyone is either on vacation or slaving away at summer jobs, right? Wrong! The Pikeville College campus definitely does not close down during those short weeks of summer. Many students return to take classes and live at Page Hall which becomes coed during the summer semesters. Life continues and, unfortunately, so do classes.

Memorial Service & Brunch

A Memorial Service and Brunch was held between 11am and 1pm for Pikeville College faculty, staff, students, alumni, and family before the graduation ceremonies held later in the afternoon. Gathered around the flagpole, everyone enjoyed the refreshments, singing, and good company of an annual celebration. Marking the end of the celebration, a tour of the newly refurbished Administration Building lobby was provided.

Linda Myers before the banquet begins.

Alumni/Senior Banquet

Pikeville College welcomed back its alumni on graduation weekend, and honored them at a festive banquet held in the gymnasium. It was an all-alumni affair this year, with graduate pastor Paul Rader giving the invocation, and 50-year alumni Orville Clark and Lola Doane recalling the life and times of the class of 1943. Gina Salisbury received the Delta Kappa Gamma Award, while Rebecca Hughes was awarded the annual Alumni Scholarship for the upcoming academic year. Most important of all, though, were the hugs, smiles, and reminiscences of a college family reunited yet one more time.

Graduate Francis Collier and husband.

Editor's Page

1992-1993 Yearbook

This year many positive advances were made by the Highlander Yearbook Staff. Our book became modern this year. A computer became our tool for publishing the yearbook. The book was also doubled in size. The staff's visions and ideas grew so we felt the we were ready to tackle the challenge of creating a larger book.

On behalf of my staff, I sincerely hope that you enjoy The Highlander. We enjoyed putting it together, with the thought in mind that this yearbook would be a window for good memories of time spent at Pikeville College. Enjoy!

It takes the combined cooperation of many people both on and off of the yearbook staff to create a yearbook. I would like to extend a very special thank you to the following: Ron Damron for assistance in planning allowing the book to grow, Linda Myers for proofing our proofs, Sadie Altman for taking countless messages, Howard Francis for taking baseball pictures, Bob Davis, our sponsor for providing copy and support, both the Business and Registrar's offices for naming many pictures, Suzanne Rasnick for sharing External Affairs pictures with the yearbook staff, and Sherry Miller for providing lists of everything conceivable on campus. Two very special thank yous for going above and beyond the call of duty go to Gene Stout and Donisa Burgess. Over half of the pictures contained in the yearbook were taken by Gene who was very patient with our needs. Donisa Burgess gave much of her time making it possible for the yearbook staff to move to a computer-based publication. One last thank you must be extended to the staff for their patience and hard work.
